Lyle Mahler is a corporate lawyer representing individuals and businesses in mergers and acquisitions (M&A), capital investments and joint venture arrangements, with a special emphasis on real estate joint ventures. Lyle also handles a variety of general corporate matters, including negotiating and preparing shareholder agreements, LLC operating agreements, and various types of commercial contracts, including manufacturing, supply, licensing and distribution agreements.

Lyle also advises lenders in both secured and unsecured loan transactions, including syndicated and asset-based loan facilities and frequently provides advice on complex structuring issues.

In addition to his transactional practice, Lyle acts as de facto general counsel to several private companies, assisting them with their daily legal issues and providing guidance on best practices as it relates to their individual businesses and corporate structures.

A trusted adviser who provides practical, business-centric advice, clients regularly seek out Lyle for general business counseling and creative, get it done approach.
