Viktoriya Liberchuk is a commercial litigator representing middle market businesses in state and federal court. Viktoriya focuses her practice on business divorce and commercial contract disputes, using mediation, arbitration, trial, and appeal to reach bespoke resolutions. Her practice includes general commercial litigation across many industries, and she also handles commercial insurance coverage matters.

Viktoriya works closely with clients across all aspects of complex commercial litigation. Viktoriya conducts depositions and appears before judges for oral argument, pretrial conferences and in trials. She also drafts motions, including dispositive motions, and applications for emergency injunctive relief. Clients appreciate her skillful guidance through the nuances of their cases, diffusing stressful situations and facilitating appropriate decision-making from start to finish.

An informed resource in her field, Viktoriya is a frequent contributor to Farrell Fritz's New York Commercial Division Practice blog, where she covers a range of topics related to commercial litigation.

Viktoriya speaks fluent Russian.
